How To Support Give Back, Give Books

Give one book or many. Donate one or many new children’s books. You can drop them off at any of our community drop-off sites, including all city branch libraries. Have too many books to transport? REF will pick them up at your location if possible.

Donate funds to buy a book. Give funds for books to be purchased by REF. A paperback costs about $5 so your donation can go a long way!

Contribute funds to buy many books. Donate funds for a classroom of students ($150); or support an entire grade (about $750). Tell us if your donation should go to individual students for books to take home, or to a school library. We’ll make sure the books go where you want them to go.

Buy specific books through REF. Do you have a book you adored? Do you believe every 10-year-old should read Charlotte’s Web? We will buy the books you want to donate and distribute them. We also have lists of favorite books chosen by city school librarians and students—ask us for a copy or see them on GiveBackGiveBooks.org.

Support a city school book club. Many high schools have book clubs. A donation of any size can support the purchase of books for these clubs at a school library or books for these reading lovers to bring home.

All contributions are tax deductible to the full extent provided by law. If you need acknowledgement of your gift for tax purposes, submit our donors’ form below.
